Red Flag Frequently Asked Questions

What if a disgruntled employee abuses the system?

- Limit access to authorized personnel
- Configure the system to not be anonymous
- Determine how open the university wants the system

What about integration with existing campus safety?

- It is possible to create forms to link into existing systems

What if students abuse the system or falsify reports?

- The best way to avoid abuse is through education
- Establish policies that false reports come with consequences
- Require log-in or registration
- It's not possible to completely protect against false reports - similar to an anonymous hotline

It sounds like big brother

- Education is key to understanding the real purpose of the system
- Research shows that attitudes are changing

Do you offer training?

- Yes, we provide several levels of training
- We provide training to the university teams
- We have tools you can use to help train/educate students

Can you help us develop our own policies for using the system?

Yes, there are several ways that we help you develop your policies. We conduct research on the use of the system to maintain a set of best practices that we will continue to share with you. We also are working to establish a peer community for sharing.
